Insure.com Survey Shows what's Most Important during Medicare Open Enrollment

By Insure.com Posted on October 14, 2020

Foster City, CA – October 14, 2020 – Insure.com supplies valuable information to help seniors navigate Medicare open enrollment between October 15 and December 7 this year. A survey of more than 500 people age 65 and over identifies what those with Original Medicare and Medicare Advantage value most as they consider their health insurance options for 2021:

Original Medicare

- Breadth of services, including supplemental benefits -- 23%
- Low deductibles and out-of-pocket costs -- 22%
- Low premiums -- 16%
- No referral requirement -- 11%
- Provider network -- 8%

Medicare Advantage

- Breadth of services, including supplemental benefits -- 28%
- Low deductibles and out-of-pocket costs -- 26%
- Provider network -- 16%
- Low premiums -- 10%
- No referral requirement -- 8%

"Seniors should take advantage of the opportunity to switch Medicare plans annually, if only to be sure their current coverage is best-suited to them," advises Les Masterson, Insure's managing editor. "Changes in Medicare Advantage and Part D prescription drug plans can occur annually meaning that coverage in place for the past may not represent the best option going forward."

Insure's guidance on Medicare open enrollment includes clear information on:

- Medicare open enrollment options
- Enrolling in Medicare at age 65
- Selecting a Medicare plan
- Medicare changes in 2021, including premium increases
- Part D (prescription drug) changes for next year
- Costs by Medicare plan type

Les Masterson, Insure's managing editor, is available to help Medicare participants understand Medicare coverage and costs for next year and further explain what individuals should consider when evaluating whether or not to change their Medicare plan.
