Two online insurance leaders combine to provide enhanced "content with transaction" offerings; Acquisition to provide 300 percent increase in online audience for Quotesmith.com services; Revised 2001 and 2002 financial guidance issued

DARIEN, IL (December 7, 2001) -- Quotesmith.com (NASDAQ: QUOT), the online insurance broker that provides instant quotes from more than 300 insurance companies, announced that it has today acquired selected assets of privately-held West Hartford, CT-based Insurance News Network, LLC, including its flagship Web site, insure.com, the popular and content-rich Internet-based provider of consumer insurance news, information and decision-making tools.

Ranked among the top seven most visited insurance sites on the Internet, insure.com is an independent insurance news organization that is widely recognized as the premier online insurance destination site of preference by consumers. The site currently serves an average of over 400,000 visitors every month and boasts a 7,500-page library of insurance articles, content and decision-making tools that are well organized and served up in an easy-to-navigate format.

Under the terms of the agreement, Quotesmith.com paid $1.4 million in cash and issued 316,000 stock options. The Company expects to end the year with cash and short-term investments of $17 million.

"This acquisition significantly advances our competitive posture by making our online insurance brokerage services available to several hundred-thousand visitors each month at the opportune time when they are conducting self-motivated insurance research and fact-finding," said Quotesmith.com founder and chairman, Robert Bland.
"Ownership of this acclaimed site gives us an arsenal of valuable content, a permanent new customer gateway and the potential to accelerate our acquisition of new customers."

"Teaming with Quotesmith.com represents a clear win and a good fit for us," said Philip Moeller, insure.com founder and publisher. "Quotesmith.com shares our independent and pro-consumer vision of providing unbiased information to help the educated consumer make wise insurance decisions. The addition of instant quotes throughout our site - combined with the transactional capability to buy from any company shown - will greatly enhance the overall online insurance shopping experience."

The combined expertise of both organizations will provide online insurance shoppers with an enhanced single-source arena of news, information, advice, comparative quotes, selection and savings.

This acquisition will create an expanded online consumer insurance information resource that combines the ability to obtain the lowest quotes offered by more than 300 auto, life, health and annuity insurers - including the freedom to buy insurance from any company shown - combined with world-class editorial content and decision-making tools designed to speed up and simplify the purchase of insurance.

Insure.com will maintain its editorial staff and its brand name as a separate business unit, headquartered in West Hartford, CT. Philip Moeller will continue to lead the business as a Quotesmith.com senior vice president. Implementation of the Quotesmith.com technology throughout the insure.com site as an insure.com branded service is expected to occur over the next 90 days.
